UNIVERSIDAD POLITECNICA VALENCIA, SPAIN

Title: SURVEY AND RESTORATION

Abstract: The conference will present the relationship between the survey in its various forms and technologies, from the direct survey to the most complete laser scanner, and the restoration of the building, through various examples developed by the authors, as well as the criteria to be applied in the lifting of a building to be restored regardless of the means and technology available in each case.

Bio: Camilla Mileto and Fernando Vegas are architects and professors at the Universitat Politècnica of València (Spain), where they teach architectural composition and conservation both in graduate and postgraduate courses. They have been guest lecturers in the universities of Venice and Palermo (Italy), Cordoba (Argentina) and the University of Pennsylvania (Philadelphia, USA) and have given lectures in many other universities. They have received several international awards for their research, new projects and built work on architectural conservation, like the 1st European Union Prize (2004, 2011), Europa Nostra Awards (2008, 2013), the Domus Award 2012, among others.
